Kobi's Wine Picks!

CHAMPAGNE O'CLOCK

Chardonnay, Robert Moncuit 'Les Grands Blanc' Grand Cru Blanc de Blanc Extra Brut, Champagne NV .. 150

I have a very soft spot for champagne and this is my favorite on the list at the moment - it's artisan champagne at its finest. This wine is rich in style with freshness to balance. Winemaker Pierre

Amillet obsesses over the chalky terroir where he grows the grapes and makes sure to preserve some of that minerality in the wine. This bottle will carry you through the meal - from the relish tray to caesar salad with oysters all the way to the pickle chick.

ROSÉ ALL DAY

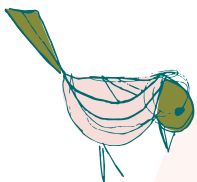

Malbec, Fond Cyprès 'Cyprès de Toi' Languedoc-Roussillon, France 2020 .. 60

First and foremost, it's always rosé season in my book. That's because rosé varies in style and weight and there's always a bottle that can match the season, When it's nice and hot, have something that is more pale and delicate. In the winter, drink a deep, intense rosé that treads the line of a light red. And in the spring, have something in the middle, like this bottle. It's nicely textured, has some weight, and carries lots of delicious fruit. Most importantly, each sip leaves me wanting another.

LIOCO LIMELIGHT

Carignan, Lioco 'Sativa' Mendocino County, California 2018 .. 42/80

What a fascinating bottle! Full of exotic tasting notes, this red pairs so well with the eclectic and bold flavors found in our food (it goes especially well with Chef Jeremiah's Chicken). It's also one of those crowd pleasing bottles that you can throw in the middle of the table and everyone will love - medium bodied with fine tannins, nice acidity, ripe fruit, and bitter greens. Though Lioco is most known for some of their other bottlings, I think this is secretly their best one. Oh, and this particular wine is called 'Sativa' because the vineyard is surrounded by cannabis fields. I'll leave you with that.
